

Pro Co and Corevalus announce they are both on the “Same Page”

Georgetown, KY & Kalamazoo, MI – It is announced today that Pro Co Sound and Corevalus Systems have officially entered into a strategic alliance. The two companies have successfully integrated Pro Co Sound’s Momentum Personal Monitor Mixing system with Corevalus Systems’ unique touch screen control SamePage System.

Daniel Maggart (VP of Sales and Marketing, Corevalus Systems) stated that; “Our vision from the inception of SamePage has been to provide a truly integrated worship team system, and now that vision is a reality. This relationship with Pro Co takes our vision to its ultimate realization by providing a worship team with an integrated music management system that now controls their In-Ear Monitor mix. And to round things out, our partnership and software link with Media Shout, offers simultaneous synchronization of music lists and music added on-the-fly between the worship and tech teams. This is truly a major advancement in worship technology integration.”

“Our system provides 32 channels of custom monitor mixing to the musician, helping them improve their performance while at the same time lowering the overall stage volume,” states Thom Dukesherer (Venture Products National Sales Manager, Pro Co Sound). In addition, the system can provide 256 inputs of low latency digital audio for transmission on a single CAT6 cable for snake applications, as well as digital audio distribution to the entire church campus.

“As a Worship Leader, I’m aware of the struggles that the worship team, as well as the tech team, has in managing all these systems,” says Craig Sibley (Pro Co Sound’s House of Worship Market Manager). “The first time I saw the SamePage System, I thought... now there’s an exciting concept! Having my music in one place and distributing it to the team with custom notes, even in custom keys, could really go a long way in organizing services.” Craig goes on to say; “Now that our Momentum Personal Monitor System can be controlled by the SamePage screen... I see this system becoming an integral ingredient in a modern church worship service. It eliminates the need for multi-tech systems and consolidates it all in one terrific package.”
